Key policy options for the G20 to support inclusive international trade and investment

5 February 2017, 09:00 – 17:45, Berlin, Germany

SESSION OBJECTIVES

As the premier Forum for International Economic Cooperation, the G20 is uniquely positioned to examine the various global trade and investment policy issues in a broader social and political context.

In 2016, G20 leaders made significant progress in both creating a new working scheme of the Trade and Investment Working Group (TIWG), but also in delivering a trade growth strategy and guiding principles for investment policymaking.

Trade and investment will continue to be an integral part of the G20 process in 2017, mainly through the TIWG and the cross-cutting Sherpa coordination process. In a video communication announcing the key agenda items of the G20 Summit in 2017, Germany signals its plan to put people at the centre and ensure that everyone benefits from globalisation, which will be achieved through its work on three pillars, namely resilience, responsibility and sustainability, with a view to “reshaping the interconnected world.”

For two decades, ICTSD has been leading numerous projects with the objective of advancing sustainable development through trade-related policymaking. Since 2012, the Centre has convened the flagship E15 initiative, co-implemented with the World Economic Forum, assembling over 370 international experts to collectively deliberate and produce policy options for improved governance of the global trade and investment system in the 21st century. The E15 Report was first launched by ICTSD and the Forum at the 2016 Annual Meeting at Davos, with additional launch events taking place most recently in Geneva, Washington, Beijing and Tokyo. The report has been welcomed by several trade ministers and senior officials.

Since 2009, ICTSD has been convening policymakers, experts, business and opinion leaders around the globe to analyse the challenges of global economic governance and provide policy recommendations for the WTO, the United Nations as well as the G20. Most recently, G20 officials have drawn some key recommendations from ICTSD knowledge products and processes, including dialogues throughout 2015 and 2016 in Geneva, Beijing and Nanjing.
This Berlin workshop goes a step further in providing a platform to discuss some of the policy issues with key stakeholders, including senior trade and investment officials from the G20 members and their guest countries. We have invited leading experts to present the latest analysis facilitate discussions among all participants, and generate forward-looking and practical ideas for the G20 TIWG and the Hamburg Summit in July 2017 and beyond. The workshop will cover the following areas: supporting the multilateral trade system, facilitating investment, boosting the digital economy, and addressing other cross-cutting issues for sustainable development.

This meeting is organised by ICTSD in partnership with the German Development Institute / Deutsches Institut für Entwicklungspolitik (DIE) and T20 Task Force on Trade and Investment. The T20 Task Force on Trade and Investment brings together more than 50 scholars from G20 countries and independent think tanks to develop recommendations for the G20 on trade and investment policy.

This event is held under the Chatham House Rule, i.e. participants are free to use the information received, but neither the identity nor the affiliation of the speaker(s), nor that of any other participant, may be revealed. The Rule can be used effectively on social media sites such as Twitter as long as the person tweeting or messaging reports only what was said at an event and does not identify - directly or indirectly - the speaker or another participant. This consideration should always guide the way in which event information is disseminated - online as well as offline.
